Institutions, according to Samuel P. Huntington, are "stable, valued, recurring patterns of behavior". Further, institutions can refer to mechanisms of social order, which govern the behaviour of a set of individuals within a given community. Moreover, institutions are identified with a social purpose, transcending individuals and intentions by mediating the rules that govern living behavior..

HBD Chick once discussed this study. What I find interesting (besides the over all correlation) is the overall pattern. Note that the high-scorers cluster towards the northern part of the country while the low-scorers generally cluster closer to the south. Some of that is due to greater diversity in the southern part of the country, but it's not just that.

Highlights We review the origins of the 'social license to operate' (SLO) in the mining sector. Northern Canada is used to demonstrate the context-specific nature of SLO. Shifts in governance and a focus on sustainability have enabled SLO to emerge. Complex configurations of state, market and civil society actors and institutions are additional influences on SLO. Further research is needed ...
